LO: I can use sounds in my writing

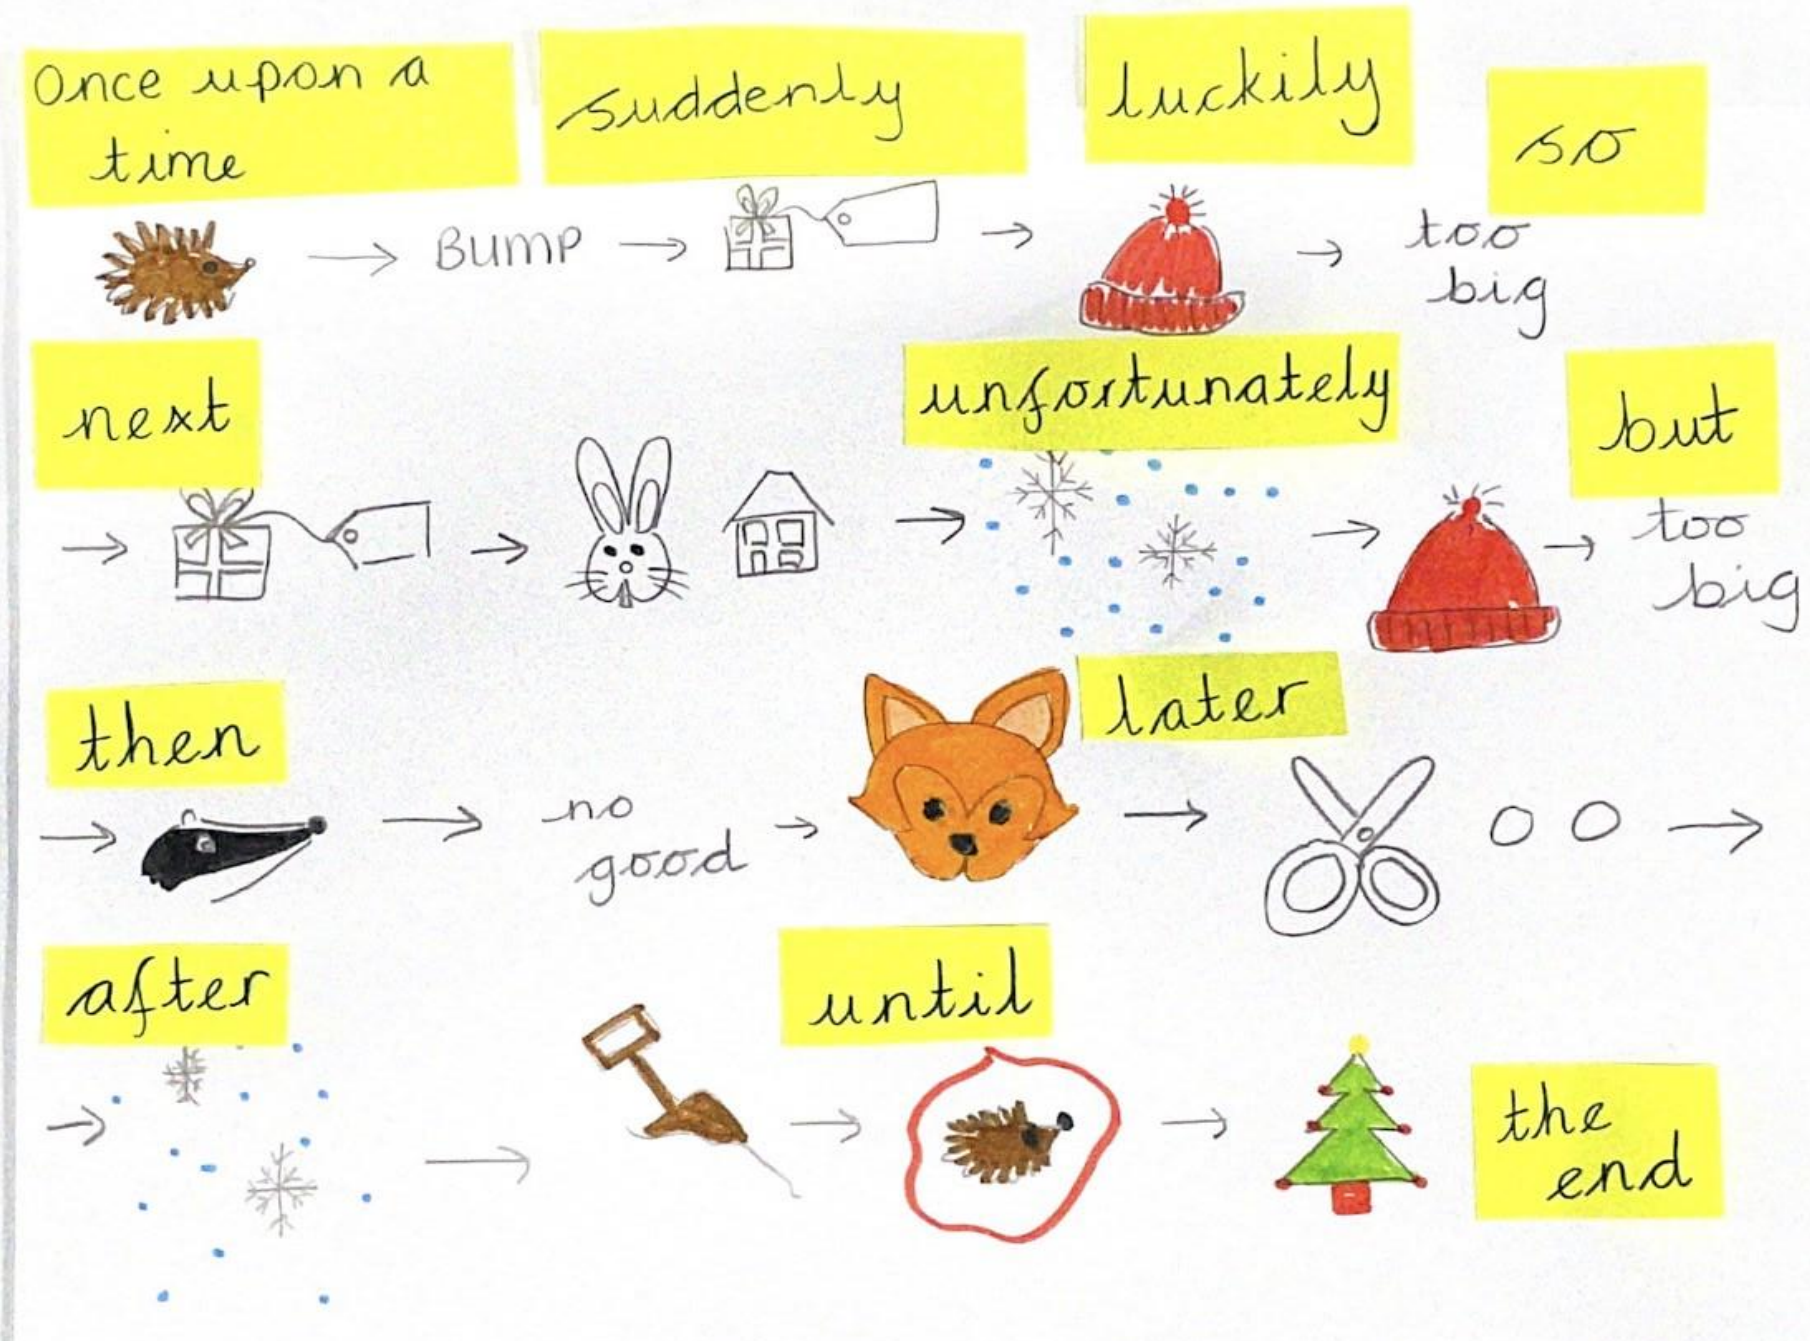

In today's lesson the children will be annotating their story map from Wednesday's lesson.

This story map will act as a plan for next week's writing activities. We have suggested that you use post it notes (maybe cut down slightly) to write the key words that your child may need in their writing and stick it onto the relevant part of the story. If you do not have any post it notes then do not worry, words can be written straight onto the story map.

We have included an example of the story map on the next slide for you to have a look at with your child.

Make sure you begin your lesson with our talk for writing story. The video of this is still on the school website and youtube.

Once upon a time
Suddenly
Luckily
So BUMP too big next unfortunately but too big then no good later after until the end

Here are some words that you may wish to include in your story map

- Once upon a time
- And
- Suddenly
- Unfortunately
- Then
- Next
- Luckily
- So
- But
- Said
- Shouted
- The end

Parents –
Please note that your child will write these words phonetically using their sounds. They may wish to use the sound mat that can be found on the Reception Blended Learning page of our school website.
